

New York

The New York office was established in 1992 and has an accomplished and expanding practice that services a variety of clients in many sectors of our economy, including energy, technology, media, financial services, and life sciences.

Baker Botts

With the benefits and resources of a large Am Law 100 firm, our New York office boasts the unique environment of a smaller collegial firm culture with less than 100 lawyers. While the office continues to grow in size, this close-knit setting allows our lawyers to gain substantive experience early in their careers.

Our nationally recognized corporate lawyers provide extensive corporate and securities related services for both public and private companies, including capital markets and securities offerings, mergers and acquisitions, private equity, committee representation, corporate governance and compliance, joint ventures, and venture capital. Our highly regarded full-service Intellectual Property team handles all types of IP related matters, including strategic counseling, diligence, procurement, post grant proceedings and dispute resolution involving patent, trade secret, trademark, false advertising and copyright issues. Our trial experience includes class and derivative actions, financial institution, securities exchange and public company defense, domestic and international arbitrations and mediations, FCPA, pharmaceutical and toxic torts, professional liability, securities and white collar defense and investigations. Our Global Projects and Energy lawyers represent major energy industry, infrastructure and petrochemical companies as well as other corporate clients both domestically and internationally, primarily on large-scale and complex transactional matters.

"Baker Botts has an extensive, robust training program and invests in its associates for the long term. Since I came to the firm in 2011, I have participated in a mock trial at a litigation boot camp, attended three day deposition training, worked with a public speaking coach, and attended business development seminars. The skills I have gained from these programs have impacted my career progression invaluable. Baker Botts further creates a professional and collegial work environment that is also supportive and very friendly."
